Supply Dwindling

Negotiations Resume In Meat Strike

Negotiations were to resume today between striking meatcutters and the management of three big food chains as meat supplies at A & P, Acme and Food Fair counters in Lower Bucks were dwindling.

The one-day strike idled some 7,000 meat counter employees in more than 475 supermarkets in Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware.

About 1,000 meat department employees of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. walked out Friday and picketing of the A&P stores idled some 3,000 other workers. An additional 3,000 were idled at Food Fair and American Stores Co. supermarkets when those firms shut down meat counters.

Talks between the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, AFL-CIO, and the Philadelphia Food Stores Employers' Labor Council, which represents the three big food chains, broke off yesterday afternoon to allow the sides to consult.

A union spokesman called the closing of Acme and Food Fair meat counters a lockout. He said the union was not on strike against those two chains and that workers reported on the job ready to work.

The picket lines appeared only at A&P stores. A spokesman for the Teamsters Union and a retail clerk union said about 3,400 of its members who are employed by A&P were respecting the picket lines.

The union said the dispute centered on a request for extra pay for evening work and work load standards, but the employer group said those points were settled at the time the walkout was called.

Good Evening!

The big day of football madness.

Never a more delightful malady and never a more exciting party than that one of 102,000 Army people, Navy people and just people at Municipal Stadium.

Too bad, we always think, 102 million can't be on hand for this one. It's not so much the game; it's the spirit and the significance that make the colorful ball a memorable one.

You know, today's the first classic we've missed since 1944. You know why? At our homestead we're up to our hips in leaves and there'll be a day when we quit procrastinating.

All right, we like Army. But not well enough that we aren't fearful Navy will pull the big play and the upset. (This is what you call the quintessence of timid prognosticating).

U. S. opens its big offensive against admission of Red China to the United Nations and let's hope it's a fully successful one.

UN Ambassador Stevenson charges the Peiping regime is a "massive and brutal threat to man's struggle to better his lot and perhaps to man's very survival." He's positively correct and he couldn't put the case more succinctly.

And we see where the Joint Toll Bridge Commission is considering the idea of replacing the ancient Calhoun Street and New Hope-Lambertville structures with brand new spans.

Okay, let's get the new bridges. But while we're at it, how about that catwalk over the Delaware at Washington Crossing and that narrow traffic bottleneck and all of its approaches known as the Burlington-Bristol headache?

Weather just as you'd call it yourself.

We're very optimistic about the atmospheres from now until April. Yet, somehow we've got a feeling winter's going to do a sleeper one of these days.

When a fellow thinks his views are getting broader it's probably only his conscience stretching.

Drive carefully during the week-end. Okay? Okay.

Go to church tomorrow.

U. S. Successfully Fires Atlas And Polaris Missiles

Chimp Returns To Work

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—Scientists prepared to put U.S. space chimp Enos back to work in a laboratory today to find out how his two-orbit flight around earth this week affected him mentally and physically.

Maj. Dan Mosely, veterinarian for the 5½-year-old chimpanzee, said Enos would be put through the same sort of "work tasks" he performed on his space voyage, to give scientists a basis of comparison.

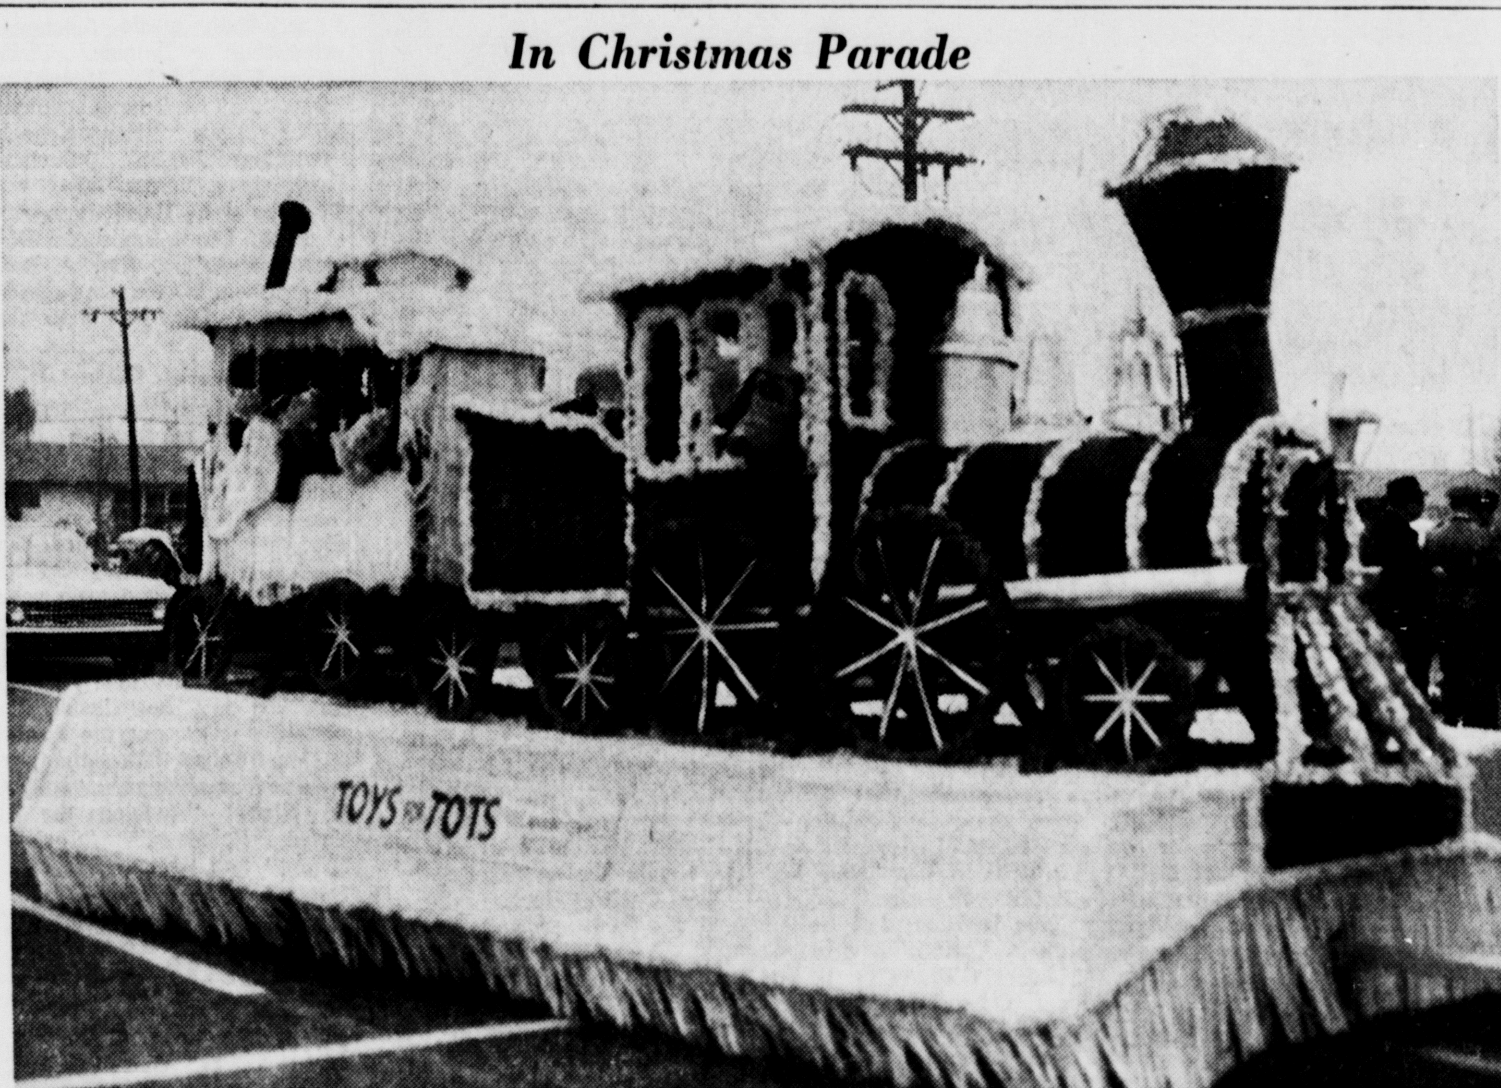

Among those waiting anxiously for the report on Enos was Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., the astronaut already chosen to make America's first manned flight into orbit.

While Project Mercury scientists were flying Enos back to Cape Canaveral from Bermuda Friday, missile workers were readying a launching pad for the huge Atlas booster rocket that may shoot Glenn into orbit at a speed of 17,500 miles per hour within a few weeks.

If all goes as planned, the booster will be installed on the firing pad within a few days. A bell-shaped Mercury capsule will be mated to its top and a final check-out begun.

However, U.S. hopes for putting Glenn into orbit this calendar year are all but dead. But Enos' success in his flight Wednesday strengthened the possibility that the flight may be attempted in the early weeks of 1962.

Mosely said the chimp came back from his trip twice around earth — about 56,000 miles — in "fine condition."

Hepatitis Cases Brought Fear For Family To Weiner

By KENNETH J. RABBen
Courier-Times Staff Writer

CAMDEN, N.J.—Dr. Albert L. Weiner, on trial for manslaughter in Camden County Court, was concerned about hepatitis cases in his practice and feared for the safety of his family and staff before the State Department of Health investigation of his activities began Oct. 24, 1960, according to yesterday's testimony.

On the witness stand for the second day was Dr. William J. Dougherty, Director, Division of Preventable Diseases, Department of Health.

Started Probe

He began the investigation of the 43-year-old Erlton, N.J. osteopath's neuro-psychiatric practice Oct. 24 when he learned from the Pennsylvania Department of Health that two of Dr. Weiner's patients, Mrs. Miriam McManamon, of Levittown, wife of Falls Township Police Officer James McManamon and George Lauer, formerly of 268 Magnolia Drive, Levittown, and died at Delaware Valley Hospital, Mrs. McManamon died Oct. 18, 1960 and Lauer, Sept. 24, Dr. Dougherty, also on Oct. 24, learned of the illness of Ronald Matlack, 22-year-old Rider College senior of 68 Lavender Lane, Lakeside, Levittown.

Camden County Prosecutor Norman Heine charges that Dr. Weiner caused the deaths of a total of

Fidel Reveals Views

Castro Dedicated Red Since Youth

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said today he really has been a dedicated Communist since his college days but he concealed his views so it would be easier to seize power.

Castro indicated that he maintained relations with the United States for a short while after his revolution succeeded only because he felt his government was not strong enough to fly in the face of America then. He suggested that other opposition leaders in South America follow his example.

"I am a Marxist-Leninist and I shall be to the last days of my life," the bearded revolutionary leader said in a five-hour speech broadcast by Havana Radio.

"At the beginning we had to conceal our ideas because otherwise we might have alienated the bourgeoisie and other forces which we knew we would eventually have to fight.

"If it was known that the leaders of the guerrilla battle were radicals the classes which fight us now would have been against us from the start," he said.

Castro's early revolutionary movement got strong support from some U.S. quarters, but his speech apparently scotched reports that it was U.S. unfriendliness that drove him into the arms of the Communists.

Castro said he consented to talk with U.S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal during his early days in power—after keeping him waiting as long as possible—only because at the time "the existing correlation of forces in the nation favored the exploiters."

He said Bonsal kept complaining about his regime's treatment of the banks, the telephone company and American firms "even though at that time (Manuel) Urrutia was president and (Jose) Miro Cardona was premier."

Urrutia and Miro are now foes of the Castro regime.

'Peaceful' Blast Slated Dec. 10

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The world's first nuclear explosion for peaceful purposes is scheduled for 10 a.m. EST Dec. 10.

The firing time was announced by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) Friday for the benefit of scientists all over the world who may want to observe effects of the blast with their instruments.

An atomic charge equal in power to 5,000 tons of TNT will be detonated 1,200 feet underground in a salt bed about 25 miles southeast of Carlsbad, N.M.

Trevoze Hgts. Rescue Squad Founder Dies

Funeral services will be held Monday for James Russell, 57, formerly of Trevoze, who died Thursday in Wildwood Village, N. J., where he had lived for the past few years.

Mr. Russell who was five chief of the Trevoze Heights Fire Company for 15 years and the founder of the Trevoze Heights Rescue Squad, moved to Wildwood Village after he suffered a heart condition following a fire in 1954 in which he inhaled refrigeration fumes.

He was a member of the Pennsylvania First Aid Corps, a member of the Lower Bucks County Republican Club and some years ago headed the distribution division of the first polio prevention campaign in the area.

Survivors

He is survived by his widow, the former Gertrude Graham of Wildwood Village; an adopted daughter, Mrs. Helen Lynam of Roslyn, Pa.; five sisters, Mrs. William Elmore of Villas, N. J.; Mrs. Helen McGary of Atlantic City; Mrs. Agnes Spicer of Chester, Pa.; Mrs. Alice Allen of Philadelphia; a brother, John Russell of Lansdowne; and two grandchildren.

Services will be at 9 a.m. from St. Raymond's R. C. Church, Villas, N. J. with interment in Elizabeth Cemetery, Goshen, N. Y.

The viewing will be tomorrow from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Matlack Funeral Home in Cape May Court House, N. J.

Failure To Register

Grand Jury Indicts Communist Party

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Indictment of the American Communist party for refusing to register as an arm of Soviet subversion set the stage today for another drawn-out legal battle.

A federal grand jury handed down the indictment here yesterday, climaxing 11 years of legal maneuvering. The indictment came just 15 hours after party officers defied a midnight Thursday deadline for registering.

Arraignment of the party tentatively was set for next Friday at the U.S. District Court here. There was no comment from Communist party headquarters in New York.

The 12-count indictment named the Communist party of the United States rather than the leaders as individuals. The grand jury action climaxed a week in which the Communist party gave indications it was going underground rather than list with the Justice Department its leaders, membership rolls and financing.

The party ignored a deadline of Nov. 20 that it must register. Under the indictment, the party as a whole is subject to a fine of $10,000 for each day that it fails to register. This would total as of now $120,000.

There was little doubt that Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy would seek similar indictments against the individual party leaders who ignored the registration requirement.

Kennedy said the department had not yet decided what form prosecution of the officers might take. But he said proceedings against individual members for failing to register would wait until Dec. 20 which is the deadline for rank-and-file Reds to comply with the 1950 internal security law.

'Phone Marathon Produces Dates

Climaxes Big Week In Space

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The United States climaxed one of its most successful weeks of rocket testing history Friday with the firing of an Atlas and a Polaris missile.

Both firings were considered complete successes.

The Atlas, an advanced model that ranks as the most powerful war rocket being flown in the free world, hurled a dummy warhead 5,000 miles to a target off the west coast of Africa.

The Navy racked up another success in a 1,400-mile test shot with an advanced version of its Polaris submarine-launched ballistic missile.

The shots closed out a week which saw America hurl a chimpanzee twice around earth aboard an Atlas rocket, send another Atlas and a Titan on intercontinental range flights over its Atlantic and Pacific ocean ranges, and shoot a Pershing rocket to its 23rd success in 27 attempts.

The firings ran the gamut of America's space-age programs, from development of short-range ballistic missiles for use by field troops to tests of machinery that will be used to rocket U.S. astronauts into orbit.

The Atlas fired Friday conducted a successful test that will help scientists develop nuclear generators for future earth satellites.

The Polaris successfully tested its nose cone and a warhead arming mechanism on its brief flight. This rocket was about two feet longer than Polaris missiles now on duty with nuclear warheads in groups of 16 aboard five atom-powered submarines.

Goldfine Case Still Alive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Goldfine case has cropped up again amid reports the Justice Department is investigating a political scandal involving prominent Republicans and Democrats.

The Justice Department declined to confirm or deny that it was studying new information supplied by Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine and Mildred Paperman, his secretary.

But reports circulated in Washington that the government was looking into the situation. One TV newscaster described it as "the biggest political scandal since the Teapot Dome incident."

William H. Lawrence, American Broadcasting Company newsmen, said the willingness of Goldfine and Miss Paperman to "tell all" would determine whether the government could take the case to court. This has been the major "if" aspect of a political cliff-hanger for months.

Goldfine, who is serving a year in prison for income tax evasion, will go before a U.S. district judge in Boston Monday on charges that he violated his probation by refusing to tell what happened to $600,000 in checks and gifts from one of his mills.

Signs Of Christmas Around Lower Bucks

Christmas is only 23 days away. And already signs of the yuletide season are springing up throughout Bucks County. Courier-Times photographers recorded some of the decorative scenes on Page 20.

Dominican Republic Political Crisis Worsens

Bristol Boy Hit By Car, Leg Broken

A six-year-old Bristol Borough boy was admitted to Lower Bucks County Hospital yesterday afternoon with a broken right leg after he was struck by a car at the intersection of Swain and Otter Sts. in the Borough.

Reported in good condition last night was Robert J. Scancellia, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Scancellia of 549 Swain St., Bristol.

Although Bristol Borough police this morning reported no knowledge of the accident since their records had been "locked up for the night", Mr. Scancellia said he believed the name of the man driving the auto involved in the accident that occurred about 12:30 p.m. was Michael Mendick, a local resident.

Scancellia said his son is a first grade student at the borough's Warren Snyder School.

The boy's father said, "He likes to go to school and is unhappy that he'll now have to miss school. He's lonely there in the hospital all by himself and is worried that his school friends will not visit him."

The boy was taken to the hospital by the Bucks County Rescue Squad.

Soviet Plans Talks Bypass

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union plans to bypass the three-power nuclear talks here and take its new proposal for an uncontrolled nuclear test ban to the United Nations, diplomatic sources said today.

The Russians apparently hope to win support for their plans from test-weary neutralist nations. The United States and Britain have rejected Russia's "new approach" proposal as unacceptable and non-negotiable.

Diplomatic sources said Russia is beginning a major propaganda campaign to exploit the revived clamor in the United Nations for an end to nuclear tests.

It was believed the Kremlin hopes to offset the propaganda setback it suffered when it resumed nuclear tests by calling for a new no-control test moratorium.

The Russians were encouraged by a U.N. resolution earlier this week calling for all-out measures to end the tests. The resolution was opposed by the United States and Britain.

U.S. and British delegates here are still trying to find out from Russia's chief nuclear negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin whether Moscow has backed out of all commitments made during three years of test ban talks here.

The conference resumes Tuesday after a long weekend recess. Tsarapkin was believed drafting an answer after consultations with the Kremlin.

Tsarapkin already had made it clear that Moscow will not agree to international controls on atmospheric, outer space and underwater tests. The Kremlin also urges an indefinite uncontrolled moratorium on underground tests.

Organized Labor Favors 'Liberals'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Organized labor will unite behind a drive to elect about 20 more "liberals" to Congress next year despite a troublesome inter-union split over job rights, a top AFL-CIO official predicted today.

James L. McDewitt, director of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE), said disputes between former AFL and CIO leaders have been virtually eliminated in the field of political endorsements.

He declined to name the areas in which COPE would be most active, but said the unions would try to defeat former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's bid for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in California.

The AFL-CIO political expert also noted that GOP House Leader Charles E. Halleck of Indiana has been winning re-election by a decreasing margin in recent years.

McDewitt's comments came after a three-day convention of the AFL-CIO building trades department that widened the gap between rival wings of the labor federation on jurisdictional problems.

The split threatens to get worse during a showdown at the federation's convention opening here next Thursday.

McDewitt said COPE will concentrate on registering union members in key congressional districts and then try to turn out a big vote on election day.

KIKUYU KILL FARMER

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI)—Leonard Wisdom, 68, a European farm manager, was killed and his 65-year-old wife was beaten Friday night by three members of the African Kikuyu tribe who invaded their farm near Limuru, which is about 20 miles from here.

I Remember Christmas

(Editor's Note: Every day until Christmas a local resident will describe the most memorable Christmas he or she spent.)

By JOHN WEIDMAN

Bristol Township Highway Superintendent

The Christmas which stands out most in my memory was in the year 1928.

I was working with the Pennsylvania highway department at the time, and was assigned to plowing snow from the streets and highways in Andalusia.

That year we had had a particularly heavy snowfall just before Christmas and we were all out working right through the holiday, trying to get the roads open so people could get back and forth on their visiting.

We did a pretty good job, too, and by mid-day we had the roads just about cleared and were able to get home to our own families.

And I, for one, enjoyed that day.

But the next day — the day after Christmas — was a heart-breaker.

The weather turned warm and it started to rain and by nightfall all the snow was gone.

Imagine having to work like that on Christmas day and then having the snow disappear from natural causes just 24 hours later!

It was a good year, though, as they've all been.

'Runaway' Moviemakers Investigated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Charlton "Ben Hur" Heston, whose chariot could pass anything in the Roman Colosseum, today asked Congress to help Hollywood catch up with its "runaway" moviemakers.

Heston appeared before a House labor subcommittee investigating the effects of imports and exports on U.S. employment. He was part of a Hollywood craft and player delegation protesting the flight of American motion picture productions to foreign countries.

The star of "Ben Hur," which was made in Italy, testified as a vice president of the Screen Actors' Guild. A spokesman for the delegation emphasized in advance that Heston went to Italy to play in the movie because it was necessary to get the part. He said Heston had no other financial interest in the film.

The Hollywood group began its presentation Friday with testimony aimed at debunking claims that more films are produced abroad to achieve authentic backgrounds.

They said production of "The Road to Hong Kong" in London, England; "Cleopatra" in Rome; and a Western called "Savage Gun" in southern Spain proved these claims to be "nonsense."

The actors' delegation said tax dodges and subsidies available to moviemakers overseas were the principal reason that 60 per cent of films currently on U.S. screens were made abroad.

They called for changes in the U.S. tax laws to discourage film production overseas by American companies and the consideration of a subsidy, financed out of theater admission taxes, for movie-making in this country.

They also urged legislation requiring foreign made films and musical sound tracks to be clearly labeled as such.

Sunday Sales Law Appealed

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The state Supreme Court took under advisement yesterday an appeal by Bargain City, U. S. A., stores from a lower court ruling which upheld the constitutionality of the state's 1959 Sunday Sales Law.

Common Pleas Judge Ethan Allen Doty handed down the decision after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled last May that the Pennsylvania law did not violate the constitution.

Philadelphia City Solicitor David Berger, in arguments before the court, said that the Bargain City stores in this city were the chief violators of the so-called "Blue Laws."

Bargain City argued that the city was discriminating against them in its enforcement of the law. Berger countered that the firm ran advertisements in advance that they would sell on Sundays.

Two Guys from Harrison, a discount operation similar to Bargain City, intervened as a friend of the court and claimed the laws were designed to put discount firms out of business.

An injunction issued June 10, 1960 has prevented city officials here from prosecuting violators pending a ruling by the state high court.

Boy Strangles In Backyard

NEW MILFORD, N.J. (UPI)—Four-year-old Stephen Vieckhaus accidentally strangled Friday while playing on a slippery-slide in his backyard.

Police said, Stephen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vieckhaus, of 193 River Ln., apparently wedged his neck between an upper bar and support of the slide and choked to death.

Stephen's sister, Christine, 2, ran into the house at about 4 p.m. and told her mother that Stephen was hurt. His mother brought his body into the house and called police.

Hit-Run Driver Sought

Bristol Boy, 6, Returns Home From Hospital

Theodore Dale, 6, is back from Lower Bucks County Hospital today after being struck by a hit-and-run driver Monday afternoon as he walked to his home at 339 Cedar St., Bristol.

His mother says that hospital authorities say they can't do anything about the concussion that Theodore suffered in the accident. They have prescribed rest and quiet for the boy.

But Mrs. Dale finds it hard to rest while the guilty driver remains unapprehended.

Inquired About Boy

She says that other cars pulled up behind the man who hit her boy on Radcliffe St. Monday and watched as he inquired about the boy's condition and then drove off. Bristol Borough police have as yet been unable to determine who the driver was because none of the witnesses has come forward to aid their investigation.

Theodore was taken home Monday by his brother, Robert, 9, and a friend. When he saw his mother he screamed, "Mommy, my arm hurts; I can't move it. I've got a headache."

"Restless And Jumpy" Mrs. Dale said today that Theodore is still "restless and jumpy. He has headaches, and he can't eat."

She hopes that police will soon be able to arrest the man who hit her boy.

Strike Aimed At Balaguer In Fifth Day

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI) — A general strike aimed at toppling the government of President Joaquin Balaguer went into its fifth day today with signs that Dominicans were determined to stay away from their jobs despite threats of violence.

A military "war of nerves", which has been going on for more than a week, continued Friday night with rumbling tanks, noise bombs and gunshots echoing through streets which had been emptied hours earlier by the strict 6 p.m. curfew.

A truckload of army troops moved against a crowd of 1,000 women demonstrators in the capital Friday, hurling noise bombs and firing machine guns. At least 14 women and a male spectator were injured by bomb fragments.

Unconfirmed reports from Santiago said 30 women were injured there in a similar demonstration.

The violence in which one youth was killed and at least 15 persons were injured during the past two days appeared to have strengthened public determination, but it was questionable how long the strike can be maintained unless the Dominican people see concrete results.

The UCN central committee met Friday night to prepare a set of minimum demands which will be presented to Balaguer. The demands will not be disclosed until they are approved by UCN locals throughout the country.

Balaguer has said nothing further about the military-backed plan to dissolve congress and install a seven-man ruling junta presided over by himself and including the armed forces chief and a Roman Catholic church representative.

Balaguer apparently gave the opposition a flat ultimatum to accept this junta or agree to this continuing in power under the present setup until elections are held next May.

The UCN immediately rejected both offers.

McCormack Backing Sure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most House Democrats already have pledged their backing to Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts for election in January as speaker to succeed the late Sam Rayburn.

McCormack, reached by telephone in Boston, said he had received favorable replies from "about three-fourths" of the party's House members in response to his request for support.

He said he wrote or wired all House Democrats sometime after Rayburn's death in Texas last month, saying he would "deeply appreciate" their votes at a party caucus to be held here shortly before the opening of Congress on Jan. 10.

The response supported previous indications that McCormack, who was Democratic leader during Rayburn's record reign, is a shoo-in for the top House spot. No other member has announced as a candidate for the job, although Rep. Albert Rains, D-Ala., has said he might do so.

MARINO, FRED M. — In loving memory of a husband and father who passed away, December 2, 1959. Loving memories never die. As years roll on and days go by, Deep in our hearts the memory is kept. Of the one we loved and shall never forget.

The call was sudden, the shock severe. We never thought that grief was so near. Only those who have lost can tell. The pain of parting without a farewell. A silent prayer, a silent tear. The beautiful memory of one so dear. Loved in life, sadly missed in death by wife Dorothy, sons, Ronald and Frederick.
